COMMANDER'S PROJECT 2024-25

Department Commander
Tricia Thurston asks that each
Post and Legionnaire support her goal!

Mission Working Dogs

Their MISSION: To improve the lives of their community members who are living with a disability by providing them with properly trained service dogs to help them live more independently despite a physical disability and by providing therapy dogs which will bring mental well-being to the people of Maine such as those in nursing homes, hospitals, and schools.

Their VISION: At Mission Working Dogs, we train purpose-bred dogs to aid individuals with disabilities so that the handler can live a life to the fullest and more independently.

Their GOAL: Service dogs can assist those with physical disabilities such as mobility impairments by fetching dropped items, opening doors, and turning on and off lights. They can also help individuals with PTSD by learning to recognize an increase in anxiety, carrying medications, and providing deep pressure therapy to calm or redirect the handler. Dogs working as facility dogs are often trained to recognize a patient's affected side in the case of a stroke and to approach on the side the patient is able to pet with or throw the ball. Patients are able to work on fine motor movements in petting or caring for the dog as well as gross motor skills playing fetch with a dog that's able to bring the ball exactly to where the patient needs, such as on a side table or directly into their hand, rather than on the ground or trying to play tug with it inappropriately.

Their PLAN: Service dogs are generally trained for approximately two years and undergo a wide range of assessments on their physical health, temperament, and tasks or skills to make sure they can properly support their handler throughout life.

6 Mobile Banking Tips To Keep Your Finances Safe in 2025

A 2023 Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) survey reported that mobile banking was the main choice for close to half of American households. This was nearly a nine-time increase over 10 years.

It's convenient to check your bank accounts and transfer cash anywhere from your phone. But it also comes with the risks that someone could mess with your money, scam you, or steal your identity if you don't know about some best practices.

Use More Secure Authentication

A username and password used to suffice, but many banks now require more secure login methods to protect your account. For example, they might text a temporary code or make you answer a security question. Banks also often let you use a fingerprint or show your face.

While it might seem like a hassle, requiring multiple steps can go a long way toward keeping other people out of your banking apps. See which options your bank allows and set them up. Plus, make sure the basics, like your password and security questions, aren't easy for others to figure out. You also should be logging off when you're done using these apps.

Set Up Alerts

You might already use banking alerts to watch your balances or learn about payments due. Most banks also offer real-time alerts for potentially fraudulent transactions or unauthorized access to your digital accounts. For example, U.S. Bank sends notifications about account information updates, suspicious login attempts and debit card and PIN changes.

Check with your bank about its real-time alert options, which you'll often find in the app's "security" or "notifications" section. Your bank should have clear instructions and offer multiple alert methods.

Update Your Banking Apps Regularly

If you've held off on updating your mobile banking apps, you might be making it easier for hackers to take advantage of weaknesses so they can get into your accounts and steal your data. You might also miss out on new features and fixes that give you a better experience.

To stay safe, either set up automatic app updates for all apps or set a time to regularly check for and install banking app updates. Only use your phone's official app store for this, as Ally Bank warned of imposter app update alerts that trick you into installing something malicious.

Be Careful Using Wireless Networks

Whether you're at home or away, using mobile banking apps on wireless networks can make it easier for someone to get your credentials or monitor you. It's especially a problem with public Wi-Fi networks that tend to lack good security features and have many people connected.

According to Sunwest Bank, using Bluetooth could also lead to someone controlling your phone, snooping on your data and even installing bad software. Plus, hackers might hear calls between you and your financial institution if you use

Bluetooth earbuds.

• The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) recommended these practices to help prevent such issues:

• Avoid settings that automatically connect you to Wi-Fi networks.

• Consider using cellular data in public places to avoid public Wi-Fi.

• Use a virtual private network (VPN) when you can't avoid public networks.

• Don't leave Bluetooth on unless you're using it — and operate in "hidden" mode...

To Our Fellow Legionnaires:

As you may be aware, each year we request donations to give to the leading candidate for the position of National Commander of The American Legion. The individuals do a lot of traveling and have expenses that they may need assistance in covering.

Each department donates to this cause, and we are not the only ones to do so. The many departments also supported our own Tony Jordan when he was campaigning for National Commander and it is only right that we, the Department of Maine, do so also.

This year, I am asking those who are listed in the National book and have received appointments or reappointments to any of the National Committees or Commissions to donate at least $75.00 to help defray the cost of seeking that position. Your support in this matter will be greatly appreciated. If you are capable of and inclined to do so you may donate a larger amount.

This year, the leading candidate is Dan Wiley of Kansas for the year 2025-2026. He is presently scheduled to attend our Department Convention in June 2025.

Your donations will be greatly appreciated. Please send them to the Department of Maine Headquarters at 5 Verti Drive, Winslow, ME 04901, and earmark your check or money order to the "National Commander's Campaign"

Thank you and let us make this one a great one.
