OUR SUPPORT FOR CHILDREN COUNTS

By Vincent J. “Jim” Troiola
National Commander

APR 12, 2023

Dear American Legion Family Members and Friends,
Nothing was said in The American Legion’s founding meetings, conventions or constitutional documents about a veteran’s place in the life of a child. “The subject developed into a major Legion program by sheer natural law,” author Richard Seelye Jones wrote in 1946. Back then, the Legion housed homeless children, fed the hungry, bought winter coats for those who were cold and helped them get on track if they fell into trouble.

Today, Legionnaires are still dedicating thousands of hours annually to continue doing such things and helping young people face challenges from domestic abuse to disabilities – and showing them they are not alone, no matter what they face.

In the most recent membership year, American Legion posts reported 21,131 activities in support of children and youth in their communities. The value of goods supplied by posts for children – from school supplies to holiday meals and wholesome events – came in at no less than $3,147,217. Monetary contributions for children and local groups that support them: $3,620,016.

How do we know this? Because over 67% of posts submitted their Consolidated Post Reports \(CPRs\) last year. These reports show, in hard facts, the ways in which The American Legion strengthens communities. I only wish we had 100% of posts reporting this phenomenal impact.

As we recognize April as Children & Youth Month in the American Legion Family, I salute those members and posts for tracking their work and submitting their CPRs. Our mentorship of children is a message I love to share during my travels, and real numbers truly bring the message home.

Those who know me understand my personal devotion to this particular pillar of our organization. My wife and I – like many grandparents in our American Legion Family – have few greater joys than spending quality time with our grandchildren, Alexander, Abigail and Natalia. And, after I retired from a career in the automotive service industry, I soon saw a need in my community that could make a difference for children, as a school bus driver, a job I have grown to love, knowing that if I can start a child’s day off with a smile, it’s going to be a good day for both of us.

The ways in which The American Legion acts on this purpose are many.

In Champaign, Ill., Post 24 devotes volunteer time

and resources for the Tom Jones Challenger Baseball League for children with disabilities. Legionnaires from Post 1587 in New York operate an outdoor program specifically for Seneca Nation 13-year-olds who are learning native traditions, seizing opportunities to enjoy the outdoors and avoiding unhealthy alternatives. At Fort Riley, Kan., Legionnaires have made a holiday tradition of brightening the lives of active-duty personnel – many from the Warrior Transition Battalion – with children at home. In Wisconsin, Legionnaire Anastasia “Yiayia” Wischki founded Be the One 4 Our Youth, in which she educates schoolchildren about bullying, self-harm and suicide.

The American Legion Child Welfare Foundation awards hundreds of thousands of dollars in grants each year to extend our organization’s reach, through agencies and nonprofits that “contribute to the physical, mental, emotional and spiritual welfare of children and youth.”

This pillar of The American Legion has literally composed itself over the years – by “sheer natural law,” as the author wrote – because it makes substantial differences in every corner of society, differences veterans are duty-bound to deliver. And if the CPRs tell us anything, they do add up.

INCOMING NATIONAL COMMANDER

FEB 13, 2023

Each year, the Department of Maine supports the incoming National Commander with a donation to their campaign seeking such position. Our own Tony Jordan, when seeking the position of National Commander received financial support from the various departments of The American Legion for his campaign and it is only appropriate that we do the same for anyone seeking that position.

As a part of the process of supporting the individuals seeking the National Commander position, we like to present the donations of individuals who have submitted donations in support of the campaign to the individual as soon as we possibly can after receipt. Sometimes we have presented the check to the individual at the Fall Meetings or the Spring Meetings or even at the National Convention.

Generally, individuals who have been selected to receive an official call into the Washington Conference are the first ones to donate to the campaign. We wish to present the donations as soon as we possibly can.

Please make the check payable to The American Legion, Department of Maine, and note in the "Memo" section "National Commander's Campaign".

Your assistance in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Lloyd Woods, National Executive Committeeman
Anthony "Tony" Jordan. Past National Commander

Create and Use Strong Passwords

One of the most important ways to ensure that your online accounts are safe and secure is to protect passwords. Follow this advice to help keep your accounts out of the wrong hands.

Create Strong Passwords: Password security starts with creating a strong password. A strong password is:

- At least 12 characters long but 14 or more is better.
- A combination of uppercase letters, lowercase letters, numbers, and symbols.
- Not a word that can be found in a dictionary or the name of a person, character, product, or organization.
- Significantly different from your previous passwords.
- Easy for you to remember but difficult for others to guess. Consider using a memorable phrase like "6MonkeysRLooking^".

Secure Your passwords: Once you've created a strong password, follow these guidelines to keep it secure:

- Don't share a password with anyone. Not even a friend or family member.
- Never send a password by email, instant message, or any other means of communication that is not reliably secure.
- Use a unique password for each website. If crooks steal your account information from one site, they'll try to use those credentials on hundreds of other well-known websites, such as banking, social media, or online shopping, hoping you've reused the password elsewhere. That's called a "Credential stuffing attack" and it's extremely common.
- If you don't want to memorize multiple passwords, consider using a password manager. The best password managers will automatically update stored passwords, keep them encrypted, and require multi-factor authentication for access. Microsoft Edge can remember your passwords for you and automatically fill them in for you when needed. See Save or forget passwords in Microsoft Edge.
- It's ok to write your passwords down, as long as you keep them secure. Don't write them on sticky notes or cards that you keep near the thing the password protects, even if you think they're well-hidden.
