

Pacific Palisades Fires

As fire rips through the Pacific Palisades neighborhood, and in its aftermath, RONALD REAGAN – PALISADES POST 283 stand with our community during these challenging times. Post 283 is prepared to provide support, resources, and up-to-date information for those impacted by the devastating Palisades Fire.

The Post building, including its properties occupied by the U.S. Post Office and CVS, currently appear to have thankfully sustained no significant damage in the fire. Post 283's doors, as well as CVS and the post office, will remain closed until further notice. Post 283 leadership is ascertaining when opening the building will be appropriate and are following the guidelines set by city officials and law enforcement.

Most of our members of Post 283, who lived in the Palisades, lost everything, including their homes.

Post 283 is committed to supporting the Pacific Palisades community in the aftermath of the devastating Palisades Fire. As one of the few remaining public buildings in the area, our facilities will serve as a hub for relief efforts, offering 24-hour access to utilities, meeting space, and communications for residents, first responders, and relief organizations. This vital work ensures immediate recovery support and long-term rebuilding for those affected.

The Department of Maine is committed to helping our sisters and brothers financially by collecting funds from concerned Maine Legion Family members and redirecting to Ronald Reagan – Palisades Post 283.
